Ancero's support team provides dedicated experts across a variety of technologies, including Virtualization, Messaging and Storage. We work with the world's leading technology vendors and partners to enhance your investment, so you gain best of breed solutions to meet your business goals.

Data Storage

Your business requires ever-increasing amounts of secure data storage – fast, efficient and cost effective. Ancero meets those needs!

Our partnership with Dell enables Ancero to provide products like EqualLogic and Compellent data storage platforms for your network. These products combine powerful data engines, intelligent software and modular hardware designs that satisfy any size storage needs. They redefine efficiency, productivity and protection!

Using Virtualization to Create Flexibility

Virtualization enables a working computer device to become an actual file that runs on a server. What does that mean for your business? Servers and workstations can be created in a virtual environment, giving you greater flexibility for deployment and use.

Server Virtualization. Physical Windows-based servers typically use 10% or less of processing capacity on the underlying hardware. Putting these devices on a virtual server increases flexibility and scalability; you can consolidate to reduce space, hardware, power consumption and cooling costs. Plus, virtual servers offer new features including faster, more flexible backups, high availability and faster disaster recovery time.

Desktop Virtualization. Desktop virtualization offers a single corporate desktop across almost any type of remote device, including mobile phones. It reduces desktop hardware costs, provides faster PC provisioning, and offers greater security control and protection against malware and viruses.

Keeping Your Business Running

When day-to-day operations are dependent on IT, system downtime costs increase dramatically and may even impact the health and value of your business…permanently.

Ancero's Disaster Planning provides solutions to meet your goals – and your budget. Ancero architects and implements complete recovery plans for any sized business – efficiently and cost effectively – with
